

BOY BUDDHIST

Le Van Minh, who is not quite five feet tall, has an air of solemnity and compassion that is far beyond his thirteen years. Part of it comes from his bald head, kept naked and shining by a straight razor shave every two weeks. Another part comes from his loose Buddhist robes. But mostly it comes from his face. Minh is a novice Buddhist monk at the An Quang Pagoda in Saigon.

He's been there since he was ten, sharing a cell with two other novices.

Minh's day begins with prayer early in the morning. He prays again for an hour in the evening. Six days a week, for four hours each day, he attends a Buddhist school. Most of the rest of his time is spent studying Buddhist scriptures.

One of six sons of a South Vietnamese rice farmer, the young novice takes his new life seriously. The five Buddhist commandments prohibit murder, theft, lying, lust and drunkenness. For the monk, three more are added prohibiting anger, passion and ambition.

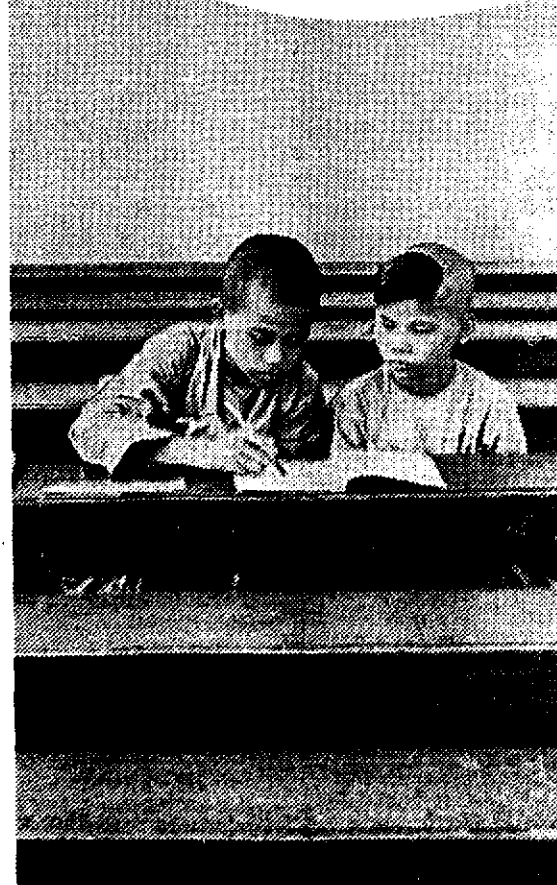

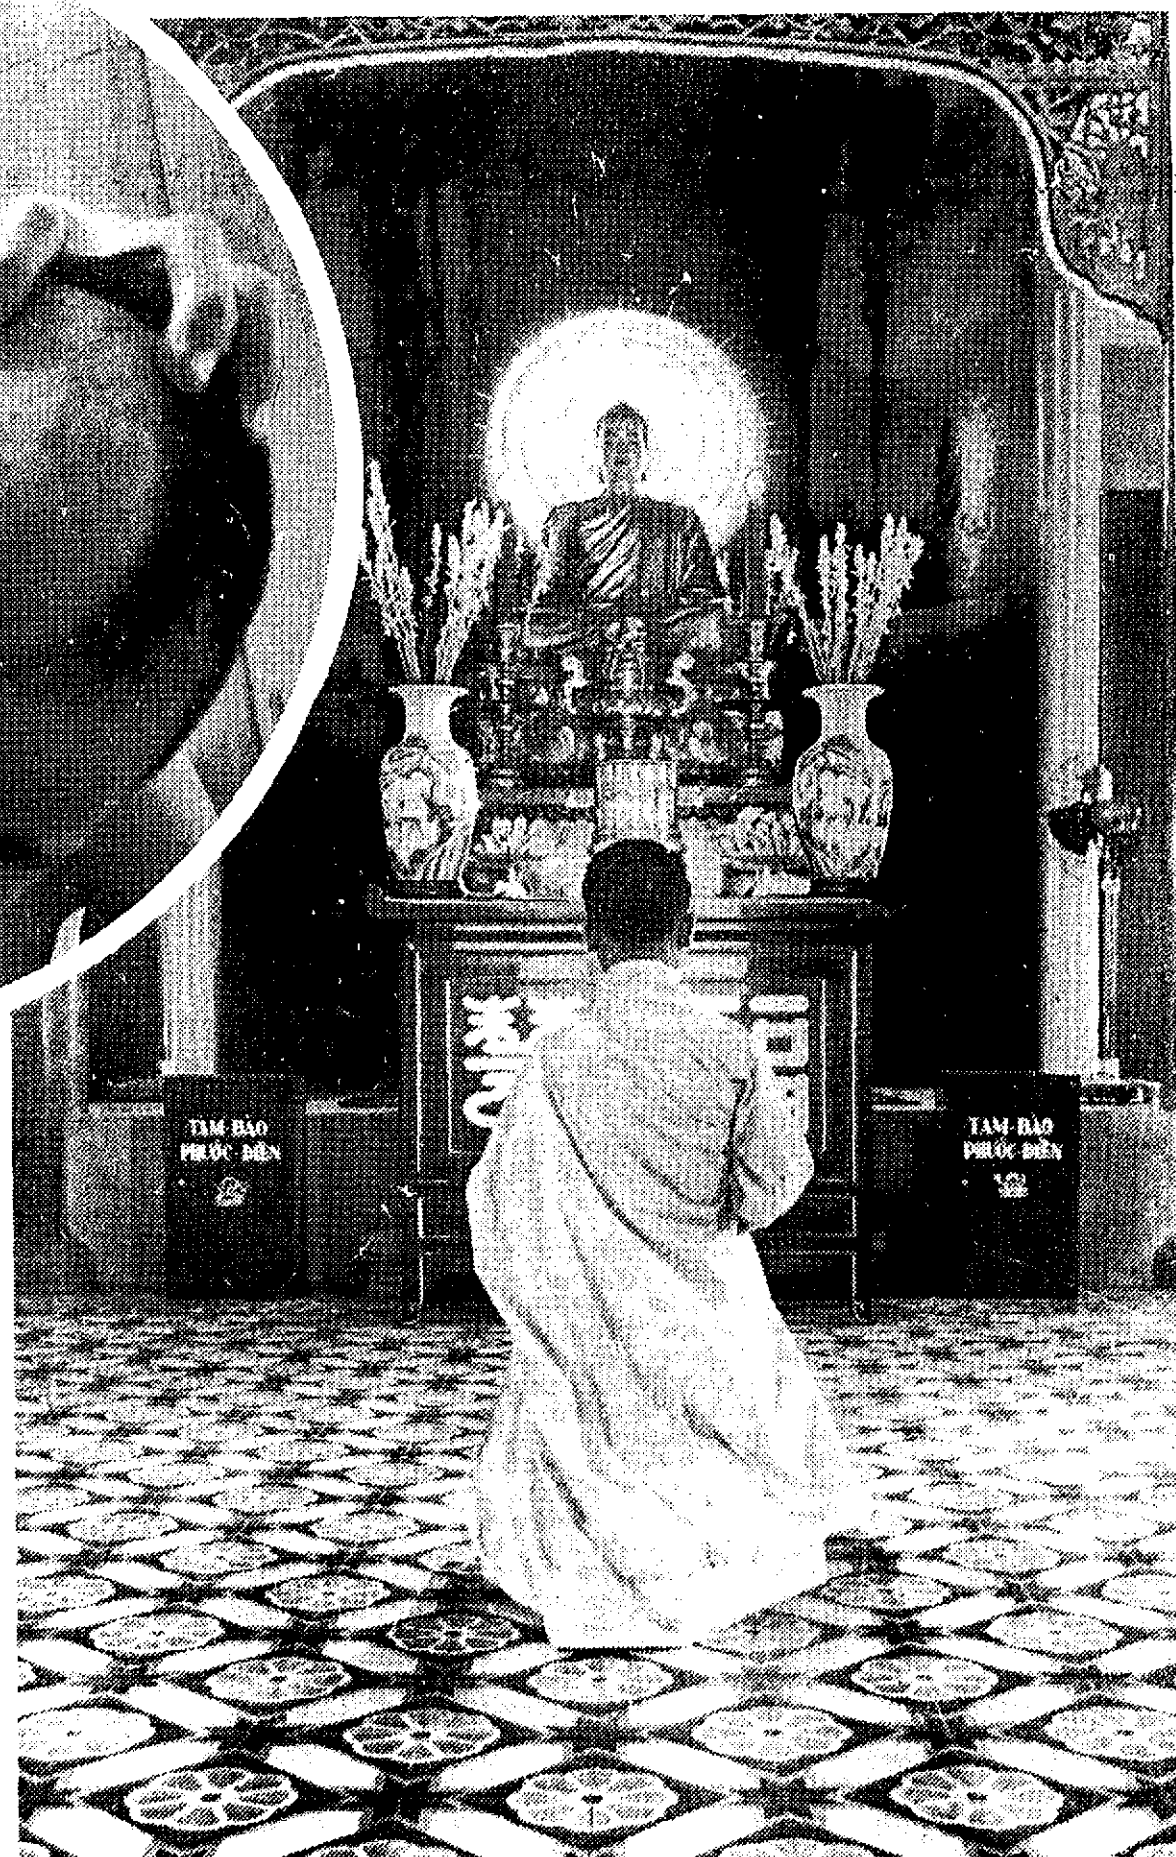

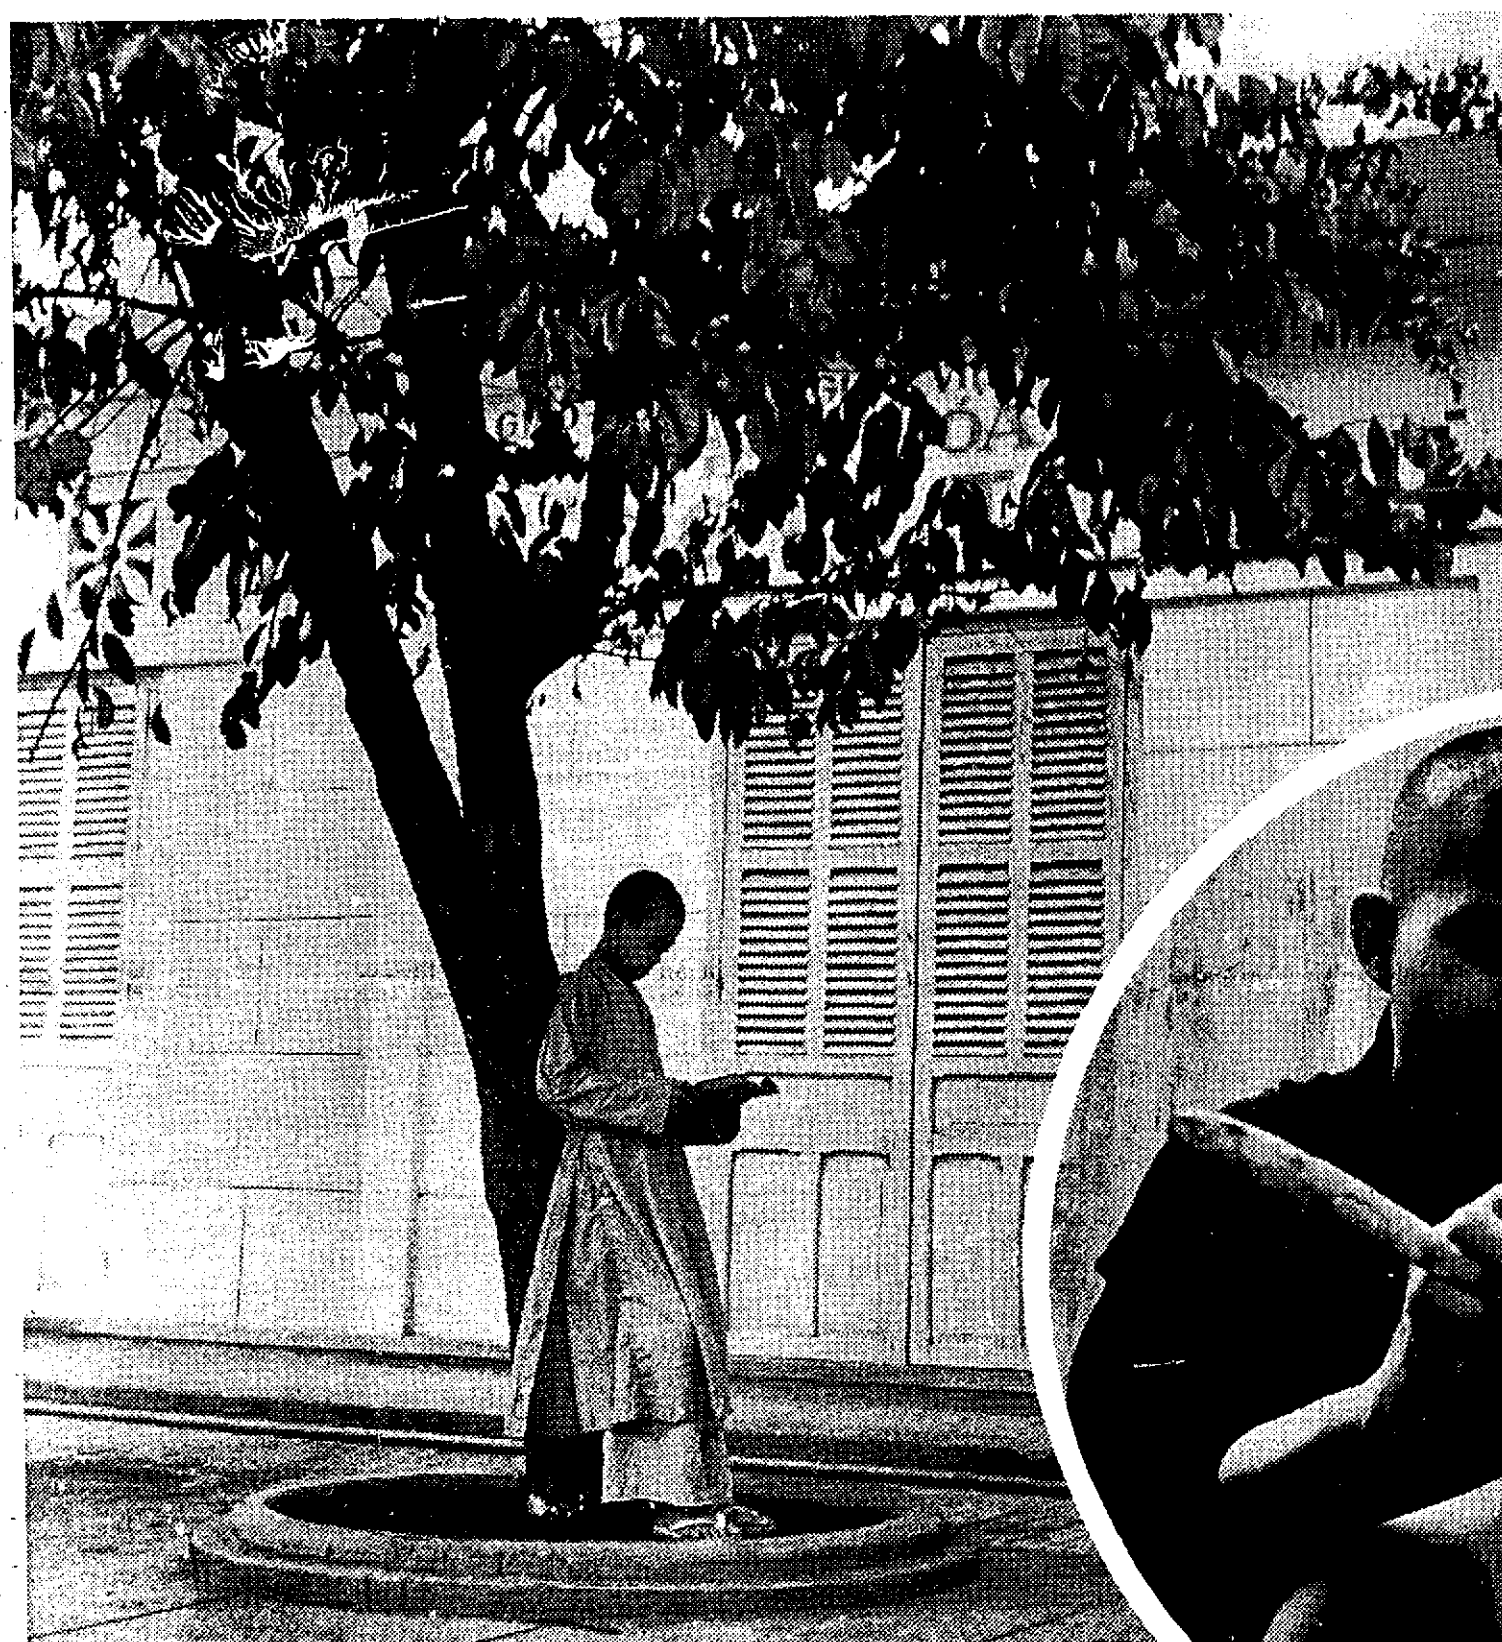

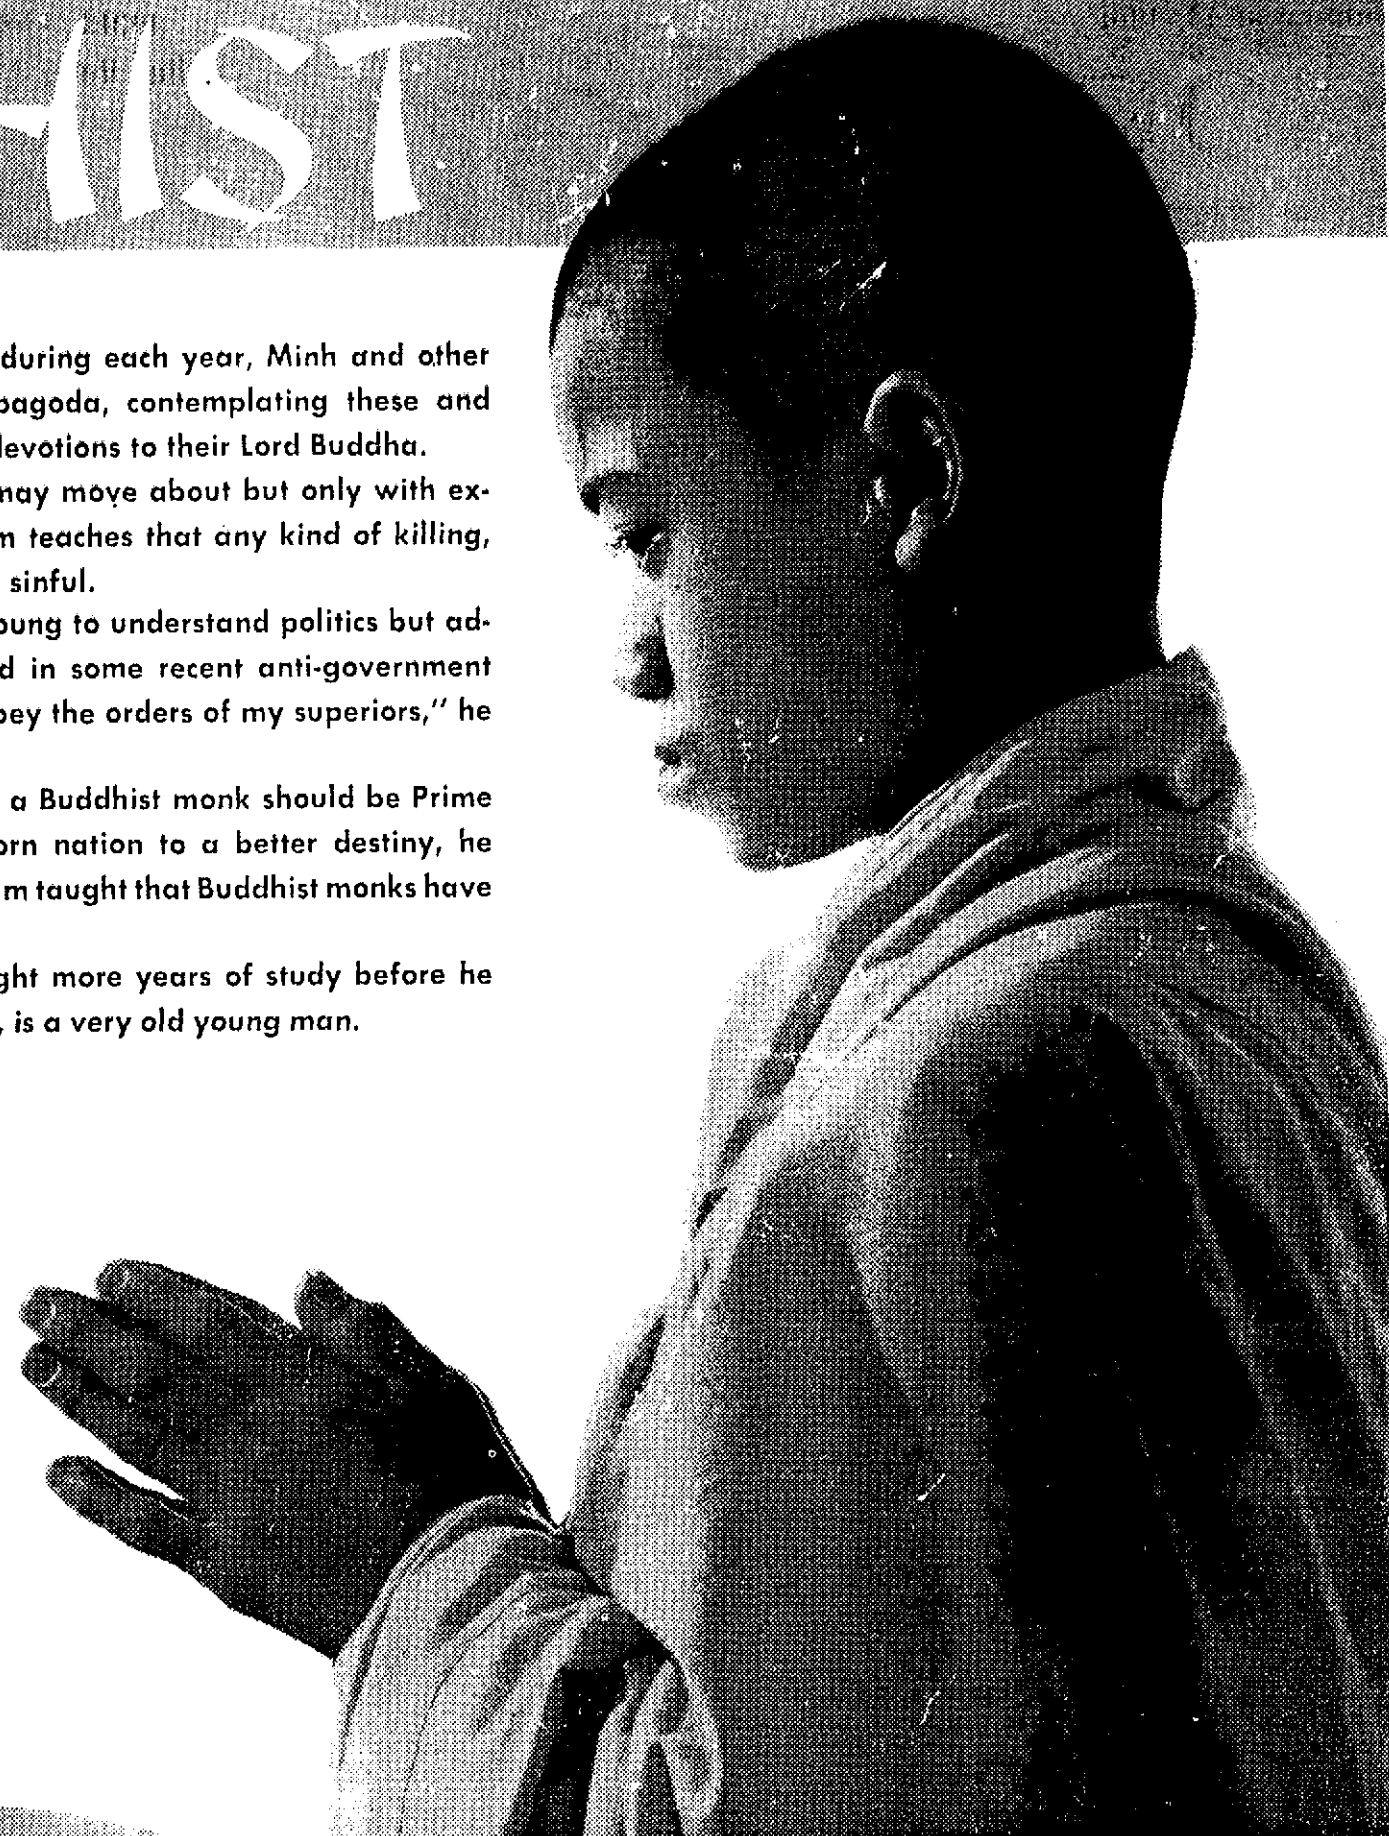

For a three month period during each year, Minh and other monks remain inside their pagoda, contemplating these and other laws to intensify their devotions to their Lord Buddha.

The rest of the time they may move about but only with extreme caution since Buddhism teaches that any kind of killing, even stepping on an insect, is sinful.

Minh says that he is too young to understand politics but admits that he has participated in some recent anti-government demonstrations. "I always obey the orders of my superiors," he explained.

When asked if he thought a Buddhist monk should be Prime Minister to guide the war-torn nation to a better destiny, he answered diplomatically, "I am taught that Buddhist monks have no ambition."

Le Van Minh, who has eight more years of study before he becomes a full-fledged monk, is a very old young man.

As a serious young novice monk, Le Van Minh studies in the garden of the An Quang pagoda in Saigon (top photo). Twice monthly, he has his head shaved with a straight razor (center photo). During a walk near the pagoda, he is surrounded by admiring youngsters. He enjoys the respect he gets as a monk.

Minh stays after school to help a young novice of a lower rank with his work.

During a period of prayer, Le Van Minh meditates before an altar and a statue of Buddha at the pagoda where he is studying. He has two sets of robes, one gray and the other yellow. It is the yellow robe, worn on ceremonial occasions, that he loves best. "I want to give all my soul to Buddhims", he says.

Equal Time
The period in the year when day and night are of equal length in all parts of the world is known as the equinox. At this time, the sun is directly over the equator.

She said she watched other ballerinas apply dark eye shadow and she did the same thing. She learned this wasn't for her when she overheard a conversation in which she was called the "ballerina with black holes in her head."

"After that experience," she says, "I always remember that even stage make-up must be applied with the individual face in mind."

"One thing I learned," she continued, "was to remove make-up with baby oil. It seems to cut through heavy make-up and leave the face soft."

It takes her about an hour to apply her stage make-up and she starts with a base, then uses rouge for contouring and then baby powder. She pencils on her eyebrows and then uses a brush to smooth on eye liner. False eyelashes are a necessary part of her stage make-up and these are more exaggerated for the stage than for street wear.

Color It Silk Chiffon
Sheer elegance and extremely soft. Color it silk chiffon. It couldn't be more so. It moves with the times in drifts that make every gesture, every step, a study in grace. The smart gal will always have one in her collection of evening clothes.

Take a make-up tip from an international ballerina. Use make-up to highlight your major asset and play down the defects such as a jutting chin or deeply set eyes. Eat properly and pamper skin with proper cleansing.

The Boutique

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Once someone gave Nat Leffeld a fur rug. He didn't like it.

"It was a miserable rug," he recalled. "Looking at it night after night just bugged me a package of aggravation."

Anyone else would have thrown out the thing or given it to an enemy. But with Nat you have to keep in mind the fact that he is a dealer in furs and his curiosity was piqued. So he did what for him was natural. He took the thing apart to see how it had been put together.

He found that that particular fur, sewed skin to skin, looked chintzy. And the idea was born to see how practicable it might be for him to sew skins together in let-out patterns when this contributed to their beauty, or skin to skin when no pattern was required. This way, he thought, fur could be sold by the yard instead of by the skin. And anyone who could sew could make a fur item.

"Fur is easy to sew," he said. "After all, your mistakes don't show through and the skins can be taken apart and done over if necessary with no needle marks visible."

Nat's brain child proved feasible. And now the furs he sells by the yard for rugs and apparel and the fur rugs he makes himself are the biggest part of his business.

The showroom of his firm, Janice International, is located in midtown Manhattan. But it looks like the home of a champion trapper. Tiger skins are on the floor, leopard on the wall and huge rollers of other furs stand here and there. For Leffeld now goes all over the world to buy the skins he has sewn into yardage.

Nat doesn't make any apparel. But he sells his furs by the yard to department stores and home seamstresses are finding great savings by making their own fur garments.

"Take American broadtail," he said. "You can buy the fur needed for about $210. Even if you have the coat made by a furrier, the total cost should be no more than $550. Yet you couldn't buy a ready-made American broadtail for less than $12,000."

"The normal savings in buying fur this way are about one-half or more."

Of course, there is a hitch. Some furs are too expensive to play with. He doesn't sell mink (only paws and gills) or leopard for anyone to whip up with loving hands. He deals mainly with the sport furs and maintains that furs from these can be made with ordinary fabric sewing patterns.

Stenciled rabbit is a big mover. About 2½ yards in 48-inch wide fur are needed to make a full-length coat up to a size 16. In 60- to 60-inch wide fox fur only 2 yards are required for a full coat.

Nat Leffeld claims that the fur market is worse than the stock market.

"The stock market, at least," he said, "goes up and down. The fur market only goes up."

His chagrin was brought on chiefly by an order he has to make an 11 by 11½ foot tiger rug. The approximate price was to be $6,000 and the rug will take eight skins. But the skins have to match. He received a $2,000 deposit in January and has acquired some, but not all, of the skins. The trouble, according to Nat, is "You can't get matching tigers."

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ball

Friday evening, June 9, at 7 p. m. the Walnut Street Church of Christ was the scene of the marriage of Miss Mary Jane O'Dell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert O'Dell, James L. O'Dell, son of Mrs. A. C. Ball and the late Mr. Ball. The candle light, double ring ceremony was performed by Mr. Milton H. Peebles, in a setting of white candles, with baskets of white gladioli on either side.

Misses Mary Beth Levins and Sherry Crank of Hope lighted the candles for the occasion and were dressed in Lt. blue peau de soie with matching head pieces. Their dresses were in like fashion to the brides.

Wedding music was provided by a chorus from the church, and Sammy Peebles, soloist sang "One Hand, One Heart". The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of white peau de soie designed with a fitted bodice accented at the waistline by matching bows in front and back. The scoop neckline featured appliques of white lace encrusted with tiny pearls. The doiled skirt also was accented with lace and pearls. A cluster of white satin roses held her shoulder length veil of illusion. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses surrounded by stephanotis.

Mrs. Glenn Parks, Jr. was her sister's Matron of Honor and was attired in a light blue peau de soie dress with matching blue lace. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and her headpiece was of blue peau de soie. Miss Greta Parks was dressed in a gown of white peau de soie fashioned identically to the bride. She entered on the arm of Master Britt Henry, and they both carried a heart shaped pillow of white satin.

The flower girls were little misses Lana Parks, and Suzy Ball. They were dressed identically in blue empire styled dresses of peau de soie and on their arms were white baskets of pink rose petals with bouquets of pink carnations. Their head pieces were of blue peau de soie. A. C. Ball, Jr. served his brother as best man. The ushers were John W. O'Dell, the bride's brother, and Glenn A. Parks Jr., the bride's brother-in-law.

The bride's mother chose for the daughter's wedding, a light blue dress of eyelet embroidery with matching accessories. At her shoulder was a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother chose a beige lace dress with matching accessories and also wore a pink carnation corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Dell honored their granddaughter with a reception in their home at 815 East Division. Presiding at the Bride's Book was Miss Becky Horridge. The reception table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white lace, and three white candles held by a silver holder centered the table along with the pink carnations and stephanotis. Queen Anne's lace and pink daisies decorated the reception rooms. Mrs. Byron Denman, served the beautifully tiered wedding cake, created by the groom's mother. The frosty pink punch was poured by Miss Pat Walton. A silver tray held the miniature rice bag souvenirs.

For traveling, the bride chose a mint green silk two piece suit with white accessories and pinned a corsage of white stephanotis at her shoulder. After a short trip, the couple is at home at 614 South Main in Hope.

Among the out of town guests were the Bride's grandfather, C. M. Jackson and Mrs. Jackson. Mrs. Ed Waddell, Ellen and Wesley, Mrs. C. W. Lewis, Mrs. W. K. Grimmett, and Miss Sarah Jackson and Charles and Miss Lynn Schooley of Texarkana; Mrs. R. S. Smith, William, and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. David Belt, Mr. John W. O'Dell of Magnolia; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ray of McNeil.

Mrs. W. Y. Jackson, Robbie, Mrs. Barry Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert May of Patmos; Mrs. J. B. Henry, Britt, and Shan of Ft. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas O'Dell and Delmar of Camden; and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Parks Jr., Greta and Lana of Kaufman, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ball Jr. Susie of El Dorado.

The Fort Smith Chamber of Commerce has handled some 4,000 inquiries from January through May, mainly from members, families and friends of Oklahoma's 45th Division prior to its two weeks summer training at Ft. Chaffee.

The chamber keeps a massive file and could easily tell inquirers the hottest day the city has had — 110 degrees July 13 and 14, 1954.

The height of the huge radio-television tower that is a landmark to travelers visiting the city stunned chamber officials, but "we'll find out," says Larry Clark, assistant manager.

"Mushmouth" has made it back for his annual visit to Little Watson's store near Batesville — and this year he was earlier than ever.

Fifteen years ago Watson discovered a thirsty turtle laboring towards his store, near the point of dehydration.

He gave it some water and some crackers, and it wandered off again.

Each year since "Mushmouth" has come back for a handout.

The day of the swallows' return to Capistrano varies and is not always on St. Joseph's Day.

No. He's not a trapper. It's Nat Leffeld of Janice International, Inc., shown in his showroom among the tiger, skunk and mutton fur he sells by the yard.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A reluctant actress, Candice Bergen, may well prove one of the more successful ones.

She is headed in that direction. Everything about her bespeaks success. For her second film, she is costarring with Steve McQueen in the $11-million "The Sand Pebbles." She has the background: famous father, Continental education — and looks—tawny, fashion-model figure—that make the magazines flip.

Acting came to her as an afterthought.

"I saw it as a chance to provide the independence to pursue what I really wanted to do, which was photography and writing," she explains.

Miss Bergen carries her independence like a banner, and she admitted it has been a source of friction between herself and her father, ventriloquist Edgar Bergen.

"I've always been antidisclipline," she admitted, "and this has frustrated my father, poor man, because he is by nature a disciplinarian."

"He was able to exert discipline on me because I relied on him for financial support. Therefore the way for me to break his hold was to start earning my own money. I went to New York from the University of Pennsylvania, got my own apartment and started working."

She became one of the darlings of the fashion world, and her fame as model brought an offer to appear in "The Group."

To her father's despair, she took the role of a Lesbian.

"The picture couldn't have been better for me," she commented. "How can you fall when you have only five minutes of scenes, play a controversial role and make a striking appearance? It was over before the audience had a chance to ask 'Can she act?'"

Can she? "I don't know yet," she admitted.

Her producer-director Robert Wise must think so. And so do the other film makers who have showered her with scripts.

The future seems unlimited for this multitalented 20-year-old. Her ultimate goal? "Marriage. That's what women are best suited for."

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Undeclared War," an NBC news color special Wednesday night was an effort to explain the outbreak of guerrilla warfare in many places in terms of the two-year old conflict in Guatemala.

Three quarters of the hour was devoted, with considerable sympathy, to showing the operations of these mountain fighters with leftist tendencies who have been operating in classic hit and run fashion against the government.

The program explained in slightly fuzzy style the goal of the outlaws — and suggested they were typical of underground warriors in other countries. They crop up in undeveloped countries where land reform is needed and where the population is sharply divided between a few haves and a lot of have-nots.

Fortunately for the NBC camera team, a couple of the Guatemala guerrillas had a rudimentary knowledge of English and, what was more, a keen working knowledge of the uses of propaganda. Otherwise they would never have welcomed the television team to shoot pictures of them. They emerged, all of them, looking rather like romantic Robin Hoods.

The program made a great point that the most fertile ground for the outbreak of such warfare is in countries with a peasant class that is largely illiterate and held in something like feudal bondage, dominated by rich landowners supported by government military forces.

Similar guerrilla warfare exists in neighboring countries of Peru and Colombia, both of which were touched upon lightly in the program.

NBC's short-lived "Let's Play Post Office" a noon hour game show will be replaced by another game show on July 4. The new one will be called "Showdown" and is notable for the fact the host will be a Los Angeles broadcasting personality named Joe Pyne.

Pyne has created a recent stir in broadcasting by a series of interview shows featuring controversial subjects — and by abusive comments by Pyne.

Misunderstood, He Says
Dear Helen: I am 19 and a victim of outdated social restrictions.

I don't much like girls of my own age as they are selfishly single-minded and look to get married right away.

Recently I met a girl of 14 who has everything. I'm not going to tell you she is mature in looks and mind because she isn't but I feel she has the basic personality traits I look for in a girl. Believe me my intentions are of the highest, but everyone around me think I'm a mental case. I cannot even carry on a remote friendship with her without people getting wrong ideas.

This, in my opinion, is unfair. Could you give me some suggestions to help me at least be friends with her, without someone calling the police? Don't say "wait." The problem is now—J. E. M.

Dear J: If you settle for friendship until you March-April romance graduates to May-June (when she is 17 and you are 22) then I don't see why her parents would mind. But don't expect dating privileges for another year or two — until you have proved to them your intentions, as you say, is the highest. — H.

Dear Helen: Why do fathers close their minds to anything that disagrees with their way of thinking? Mothers aren't like that. They can see when there should be exceptions.

My Dad says I can't date for another year. (I'm 14). I go along with that, but I've met this awfully nice senior boy who wants to take me to a special dance. He's quite shy and not at all forward, and my mother thinks maybe one exception wouldn't hurt. Not Dad!!!!

You should hear how my Dad explodes if anyone mentions the drive-in theaters, while my mother and I know it all depends on who you go with.

He has these set ideas and that's it. What can we do? —

Even a frug fan should escort his partner from the floor when the dance ends.

QUICK QUIZ

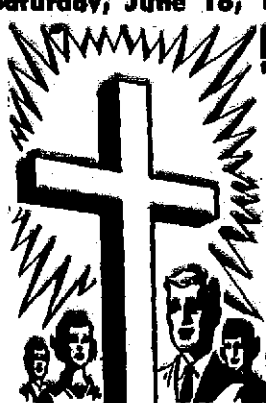

Q—The library of what American statesman formed the nucleus around which the Library of Congress was built?
A—Very hard, and having a close grain, it is valuable for musical instruments, furniture and interior decoration. The inner bark yields the sticky material called birdlime.

God's Word

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

Says Come

Father's Day

In the memory of every child is enshrined the thoughtful and devoted, self-sacrificing, happy comradeship of a GOOD FATHER.

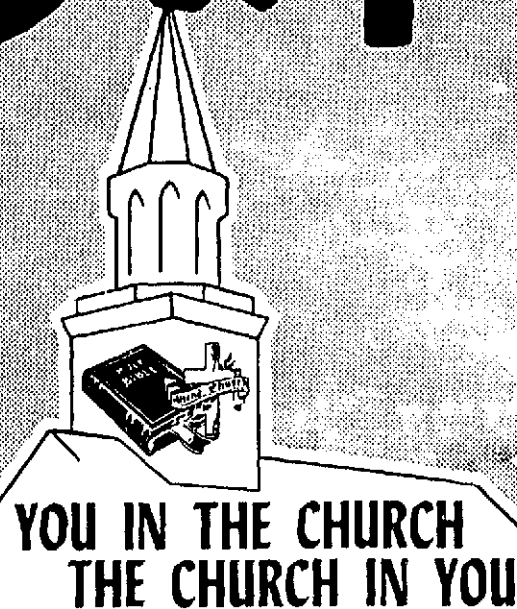

It doesn't make any difference what your trade is, you are all the FATHER your child knows. Dad doesn't ask for a special day but let's give him one... pour on the attention and season it with tenderness.

Surprise him! Catch him with the guards of age and dignity down.

Let him be the center of all your plans on this one big day...

Father's Day. He may be gruff, and steady, and firm but he is an easy victim of love's attack. An x-ray picture of his heart would reveal true concern you never dreamed could be there.

Take him to church this Father's Day. Gladden his heart this one day by making all your plans his plans.

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

In 1923, 108 companies were manufacturing automobiles in the United States. Within four years the number had shrunk to 44 companies. At the peak of the boom the independent companies held only 25 per cent of the automobile market while five companies accounted for three-fourths of the volume. But the small firms played an important role since they were more likely to introduce innovations than their bigger competitors.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By JACOB & SON

In our column we have occasionally reviewed hands played by the late George Reith, one of the few older generation auction players who was able to become as great at contract as in the earlier game.

His oldest son, Rear Adm. George Reith, U.S.N. retired, writes us occasionally. Today he comments on our hand of April 30. When played some 30 years ago each declarer in a team match played at six spades. South started ace of hearts, ace of diamonds, king of diamonds and came to a halt when West trumped the king. One West led the queen of hearts, whereupon his opponent made the rest of the tricks by means of a three-suit squeeze. The other West shifted to a club, broke up the squeeze and set the contract. George points out that there is a way to make seven against that original heart lead. Of course, it does require knowledge of the location of all the cards but such an interesting play is worth repeating the hand.

South wins the heart lead and plays a spade to dummy's queen. Then he plays his ace and king of diamonds, ruffs a diamond with dummy's deuce of trumps, ruffs back to his hand with a heart and runs off all his trumps.

This play leads to the same squeeze that developed when West ruffed the diamond king and led a second heart.

On the last trump lead West must hold on to the jack of hearts and can't keep his king of clubs guarded. Then the ten of hearts is thrown from dummy so that dummy retains the ace and jack of clubs. Now East must unguard his queen of clubs to hang on to a diamond.

"Welcome aboard, Admiral."

OUT OUR WAY

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Rob Gardner is a 21-year-old left-handed pitcher for the New York Mets who'd make you think he's twice his age.

For instance, Rob has pitched two months in the major leagues, and already he has lost his fast ball. That's a Met effect.

"At the end of last season," he mused as he dug his spikes into the carpet of the Met dressing room in Shea Stadium, "I was a fast-ball pitcher. Now I'm relying more on breaking stuff and control. I hope my fast ball comes back."

Between You'n' Me

The odds are with him, and the kid's not suffering in the meantime. He worked into manager Wes Westrum's starting rotation in spring training and has pitched strongly enough to retain his spot.

He has also established himself as a personality prototype for the New Breed. For instance, there's his name. Most guys named Robert wind up being Bob instead of Rob.

Your first name is Robert, isn't it?

"Wrong. As a matter of fact, it's Richard."

Then why Rob?

"It's kind of confusing. When I was younger, my mother called me Robin. I didn't like that, so I shortened it to Rob."

Where did she derive the Robin from?

"She said my mouth was always open like a bird's, and then she went from there."

Gardner's the kind of character who once climbed a mountain in Vermont and staked a claim to it by tying his T-shirt to a stick in the ground. An ordinary kid just turned 21 might be surprised to find himself pitching in the major leagues.

"Well, the more I think about," he said, trying not to think, "it seems kind of strange. But when I was in the minor leagues for three years that's all I ever strove for. Now that I am here, I'm not really awed by the hitters. I'm throwing the same pitches, maybe with a little better control."

Right there you know he's different. Young left-handers are traditionally wild. The thought occurred that even with his poise, Rob might turn around, case the crowd at Shea Stadium and wonder what he's doing out there on the mound.

"Not," he observed, "unless I'm in a lot of trouble. Then I kind of wonder what I really AM doing out there. Otherwise, I don't notice the people much. It's nice, too, to be in a big stadium. I've pitched in some places where if you threw sidearm, you'd scrape your knuckles on the wall."

Gardner, drafted by the Mets from the Minnesota organization after one year at Orlando, has stopped off in Wilson, Auburn, Salinas, Williamsport and Buffalo en route to Shea Stadium. All along he was regarded as a good prospect.

"The confidence has always been there," he noted. "But I don't think the pitching know-how has always been there. Every time I get somebody out, it gets a little better. My skills are increasing more than my confidence."

And doesn't the enthusiasm of the Met fans provide a stimulant, too?

"I never played in a town quite like this. The people here are really rabid. You know they're behind you 100 per cent."

He noted, parenthetically, that another thing which made New York a different kind of town was the people.

"It's got more of 'em," he said.

He won his first two starts of the new season pitching with the poise and nonchalance of a window washer on the 86th floor. If anything bothers him when he's out on the mound, he doesn't show it.

RICHIE ALLEN'S SWITCH TO LEFTFIELD BECAUSE OF A SORE ARM, HASN'T HURT HIS STICKWORK!

The Best at Second Base

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There's a sports cliché that has forever puzzled Bill Mazeroski, mainly because it is forever being applied to him.

"Quick hands," the Pittsburgh Pirates second baseman said. "Now just what the devil does that mean? Not only in baseball, but any sport. It's misleading, I think."

It doesn't mean that Mazeroski can flip a bite of steak into his mouth faster than most people, or that he holds some sort of record for shoelace tying.

What it's supposed to mean is that Mazeroski can take a throw at second base and whip it off to first to complete a double play with his hands working in a kind of blur.

"This is the misleading part," Maz said. "It isn't fast hands at all. It's more like a technique and it has very little to do with so-called natural ability."

Cincinnati second baseman Pete Rose, who has been bothered in his major league career by the double-play pivot, once came to Mazeroski for advice and remarked, "I wish I had your hands."

"I told Pete he probably had better wrists and hands than I have. He's a switch hitter, after all, and a good one. I appreciate the compliment, but I told him if he wanted to learn anything from me he should start watching my feet, not my hands."

"This is the technique. Many second basemen think they should get to the bag the same time the ball does, but actually you should get there a little before."

'They Want Image' ... So Terrell Will Oblige

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Boxing commissions told Ernie Terrell they didn't like his image just once too often.

"They want image from me," Terrell said. "All right, we'll give them image."

So today Terrell walks around in a business suit, button-down shirt and shined shoes. Roll collars and skin-tight pants don't go with an attaché case.

And he walks in flanked by another Ivy type and a pretty, smartly dressed reddish-blond.

Four guys in pin stripes, puffing stogies and looking ornery, are nowhere to be seen.

Ernie Terrell, the World Boxing Association's heavy-weight champion, has gone Madison Avenue, literally.

"Two reasons," Terrell said. "One, I didn't really have any other choice, and second, it's a smart move."

His entourage nowadays includes George Hamid, 40, a millionaire sportsman (he has money in the Miami Dolphins and the Trenton, N.J., Speedway) and Princeton grad, and 25-year-old Barbara Sheehan, his press agent.

While Terrell trains in Houston for his WBA title fight there June 28 with Doug Jones, Miss Sheehan is sending out press releases that read:

"Terrell represents the new type of athlete that has appeared in all professional sports during the past 10 years. 'Ernie is not only a handsome, well-dressed individual, but also an exceptionally intelligent young man who could be fully capable of going into another career and doing equally well ... as people will tell you who have seen Ernie sparring verbally with Johnny Carson on the Tonight Show."

Says Hamid, who is now Terrell's "official" business adviser, "His problems of the past are over and I see nothing but clear sailing ahead."

Talk like that. Plus some All-American blarney about not drinking or smoking and going to Viet Nam to entertain the troops.

Terrell is president of Ernie Terrell Enterprises, Inc., set up at the suggestion and direction of Hamid. Incorporated in New Jersey, ETE handles Terrell's boxing career and his rock 'n' roll group, Ernie Terrell and the Heavyweights. Ernie sings and plays guitar.

"Now there shouldn't be any problems like I had when the New York commission called me in for the Clay fight to tell me I was associated with the underworld," Terrell said.

"Everything is on record. All my associations. Everything. I never associated with any gangsters, but anyone who still insists on believing it can now check with the State of New Jersey."

Terrell doesn't like to talk about the abortive Clay fight. It rattle him that, in light of Clay's mouthings about the draft, people say he backed out of the match.

"I am the WBA champion,"

ERNE TERRELL
"Up and up"

he said. "The WBA has rules. Those rules said I couldn't sign a contract that had a return clause in it, so I had no choice but to back out or lose my WBA title."

"And what's wrong with going by the rules? I fight the best. Doug Jones is second-ranked and the rules say that's who I should fight. I'll keep on doing that as long as I have the title."

Allen's Caddies Glad To Extend Services

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PHILADELPHIA—(NEA)—For 13 years, Dick Groat has been the type of professional other professionals admire.

It goes far beyond daily production. Dick Groat, whether in Pittsburgh, St. Louis or Philadelphia, always has produced.

Perhaps it's the way he has done it: quietly, efficiently, dramatically. Because he so often has carried a team for weeks at a time, Groat sounded strange admitting that he, too, needed the lift Richie Allen provided when he returned to the Philadelphia Phillies lineup at the end of May.

"It makes no difference how long you've been in the game," Groat said, "or what you've done to realize how much a guy like Richie Allen means. We all have our functions, but when he's in the lineup it makes a tremendous difference to everyone in the batting order."

"Do you know what his bat means? Does Willie Mays mean much to the Giants? That's what Allen means to us."

"He is just so unbelievably strong that he can break a game open at any time he walks to the plate."

It was in Chicago, sliding into second base, that Allen suffered a partially dislocated shoulder. For nearly a month, he was inactive, except for a few pinch-hitting appearances.

Without him, the Phillies promptly lost 6 of 13 one-run games.

By May 27, with the Philadelphia record at 18-18, Gene Mauch inserted Allen into the lineup. But he was in left field now, not third base, because he could not throw across the diamond.

He could, however, swing with a minimum of pain, and the National League standings soon reflected his return.

In a matter of weeks, he had seven home runs and 21 RBI, which made Gene Mauch's prophecies sound quite true.

"We'll be all right," Mauch insisted during the Phillies' slump, "if we can stay close until Allen gets back."

Now that he is back, the Phillies are willing to swap his offensive power for his defensive liabilities in left field. He simply can't throw correctly yet.

"We don't even try to make a play at second base when a ball is hit safely out there in left," Groat said. "When I'm playing short, my instructions are to get out there as fast as possible and get the ball for the relay."

Usually Groat—or Bobby Wine, the other Philadelphia shortstop—is within 10 or 15 feet of Allen by the time he has fielded the ball. Richie then lobbs the ball to the shortstop, who makes the throw back to the infield.

It means a lot of extra legwork for Groat and Wine.

They figure, however, they'll receive some extra pay for it in October when the World Series checks arrive in the mail.

High Finance at First Base

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — During the Gas House Gang era, Dizzy Dean passed time on road trips by dropping water bombs on anyone who walked beneath his hotel window.

Pepper Martin, the third baseman, amused himself by racing automobiles.

Frankie Frisch, the manager — well, he grew old quickly.

What Frisch needed was a Len Gabrielson. Correction: a team of Len Gabrielsons.

Gabrielson is an outfielder-first baseman with the San Francisco Giants who once studied for the foreign service at the University of Southern California.

He also hit baseballs quite far and the bonus money for young baseball players was considerably higher than the bonuses for young foreign service employees.

So Gabrielson chose baseball. He has been with Milwaukee, Chicago and San Francisco and last year hit .293 with the Cubs and Giants.

During the off-season, Gabrielson has a chance to practice his other profession. He's with one of the country's largest dairy firms — in its international division. He's well-prepared.

Tax Rates Favor The Illegitimate Child

Wilson Harder, who writes a highly interesting column called "Washington and Small Business" in the "Weekly Livestock Reporter" advances some interesting questions concerning the cost of rearing and educating children in this day of the Great Society.

His column speaks for itself, and we are reproducing it here in full:

"Under the laws of the land at present an illegitimate child is worth more than other children."

"This somewhat whimsical situation was recently highlighted by an editorial appearing in the Union County Leader in New Mexico. The editor pointed out that under the Aid to Dependent Children, the government will pay out more than $800 per year for the upkeep on an illegitimate child. But for income tax purposes, only $600 is allowed to a family for each legitimate child."

"The New Mexico editor also pointed out that under the Cuban refugee program a minimum of $1200 per year is paid for each refugee child's upkeep, but if the child is attending school an extra $1000 per year is allowed."

"In addition the editorial states that in the Federal Job Corp, the government spends $7000 per year per child."

"And according to government figures the VISTA program, (Volunteer in Service in America) spent $3.1 million in the last fiscal year for only 202 trainees, indicating that in this government agency the cost of training one child runs to more than $15,000 per year."

"Thus, the editor asks 'How in the world do you expect parents to provide all these things—plus clothes, recreation, books, medicine... for $600 per year? With your own figures you admit it can't be done.'"

"This editorial poses some very pertinent questions. The question is magnified when it is realized that the government costs per child cited at actual outlays, while the tax deduction granted for a child in a family is only $600 which means that cash savings is only the sum arrived at by multiplying the $600 by the tax rate. For example, the actual cash for a child on a 15% income tax bracket is $90."

"Recently in the Congress there was again defeated an amendment to the tax revision bill which would have permitted parents to take a small extra exemption for children attending college."

"Purportedly, the present aim of the government is to encourage more education. But more education for whom?"

"For example, as cited by the New Mexico editor, a Cuban refugee child is given an extra $1000 if attending school, but the American middle class family, which pays largely for Cuban students, gets absolutely no breaks of any kind."

"It would almost appear the Great Society has a great aim. That is to develop the non-demonstrating middle class into an illiterate class while increasing the erudition in the ranks of the pickets and demonstrators." — West Point (Miss.) Times Leader

Presbyterians to Hear Solo in Spanish

Two special features of the Morning Worship Service at the Presbyterian Church will be a solo in Spanish by Mrs. Haskell Jones. She will sing one stanza of "I Am Thine, O Lord" in Spanish.

This was the theme song on the recent trip she made with a group of Presbyterians to Monterey, Mexico to work in the El Buen Pastor Church. Then she will sing another solo "Soft Were Your Hands, Dear Lord" in English.

Another special feature of the Service will be the sermon by the Student Minister H. B. Chadwick. His subject will be "There Were Two Prodigals."

RUSHING THE SEASON—Superhighway drivers by now should be used to seeing just about anything being transported by wheels on the high-speed, heavy-duty routes, but this load may well have made even the most-hardened turnpike think summertime temperatures were causing a mirage. A 40-foot Norway spruce Christmas tree was trucked from Kent, Ohio, for an early start on preparation for the Ford Motor Co.'s annual Christmas display at its Dearborn, Mich., headquarters. Driver of the truck? Stanley Santa of Rootstown, Ohio.

This Reference Book Is Certainly Not Dull

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

Reference books, everyone will agree, are excellent for locating specific information. But did you ever read one without a particular subject in mind?

Recently, a copy of "Arkansas Lives," the Opportunity Land Who's Who for 1966, came into our hands. It proved to be doubly fascinating because of the many familiar names, some of whom are personal friends.

The 631 page book is published by Historical Record Association, Inc. Of Hopkinsville, Ky., and edited by Dr. John L. Ferguson, educator, historian, and executive secretary of the Arkansas Historical Commission.

Listed on the editorial advisory board were: Hon. Homer M. Adkins, Malvern, deceased, former Governor of Arkansas; Mr. J. H. Atkinson, Little Rock, Chairman Emeritus, Department of History, Little Rock University; Mrs. W. B. Burkett, Bassett, President, Arkansas Division, UDC; Mrs. John A. Carr, Arkadelphia, Regent, Arkansas DAR; Mrs. A. S. Gash, England, Arkansas History Commission; Mr. Hays Gibson, Conway, Past President, AEA; Capt. John C. Hammock, Dermott, retired naval officer; Dr. Alfred Kahn, Jr., Little Rock, editor, The Journal of the Arkansas Medical Society; Mrs. Mary Jess Lankford, Hot Springs, Past President, Arkansas Federation of B & P Clubs;

Hon. Harry J. Lemley, Hope, deceased, Federal Judge, Eastern and Western Districts of Arkansas, retired; Mrs. Rosa Z. Marioni, Fayetteville, Poet Laureate of Arkansas; Dr. Erwin L. McDonald, Little Rock, editor, Arkansas Baptist News-magazine; Hon. Sidney S. McMath, Little Rock, attorney and former Governor of Arkansas; Mr. C. Hamilton Moses, Little Rock, attorney, former President and Chairman of the Board of Directors, Arkansas Power and Light Co.; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Murray, Little Rock, Chancellor, Diocese of Little Rock; Mr. H. F. Ohlendorf, Osceola, President, Arkansas Farm Bureau Fed.; Mr. Pete Shiras, Mountain Home, publisher, The Baxter Bulletin; Mr. Charles A. Stuck, Jonesboro, historian, Methodist lay evangelist; Dr. Joe Verser, Harrisburg, President, Arkansas Medical Society; Mr. Harold A. Wood, El Dorado, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The publishing date for the book was 1965 so some of the officers of clubs have changed and in a few cases the subjects whose biographies appear are now deceased. Why list above at length the advisory board? To give emphasis to the careful selection of Arkansas natives and sons and daughters by outstanding leaders in various fields.

The names of people from throughout the state appear in "Arkansas Lives," and the pictures of some accompany the sketches of their lives and accomplishments. While Washington, Nashville, Texarkana, Prescott, and Emmet all have citizens numbered among those in the book, we were most interested in the ones with "Hope" in their biographies. These included:

Martha Burton Allison (Mrs. Roy); the Rev. M. C. Barham,

Rte. 3; Mary Della Pence

Carrigan (Mrs. Steve, Jr.); Etta

Elizabeth Curry Champlin (Mrs

Charles Albert); deceased; Earl

D. Downs, Rte. 1; Harold Sylvester Eakley; Vincent Walker

Foster; John H. Green, Little

Rock, a native of Hope; Hon.

Harry J. Lemley, deceased;

Maj. Gen. Harry J. Lemley, Jr.,

Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., a native of Hope; Col. Kenneth Mc-

Rae Lemley, Arlington, Va., a native of Hope;

George Wilbur Peck and Mary

Elizabeth (Betty) Burton Peck,

Texarkana, formerly of Hope;

DuVal L. Purkins, Lake Village, a native of Hope; Dr. Grandison Delaney Royston, Rte. 3

Grandison Delaney Royston, Jr.;

Brack Rainey Schenck; Audrey

Ross McJunkins Spates (Mrs.

Lahroy); John D. Spragins,

Batesville, a native of Hope;

Dr. James Albert Spring, Plain

Dealing, La., formerly of Hope;

Robert Lloyd Truax, Monroe,

La., whose wife is the former

Nancy Camp of Hope; Audrey

Ulmer Wilson, Patmos Road;

the Rev. Pink White, Mineral

Springs, born near Hope; Mary

McLemore Whitworth (Mrs. Hary Claude).

The biographies which had pictures also included the three

Lemleys, Dr. Royston, Mr. S.

Spates, and Mr. Wilson. Reading about people you know and finding out more about those of whom you have merely heard always proves enjoyable. This is a reference book that is certainly not dull.

Meany Wins

Clash With

Reuther

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-

CIO President George Meany is winner and still champion of the big labor federation after a bitter clash with Walter P. Reuther over foreign policy.

Welding words like a plumber's wrench, Meany Thursday denied Reuther's charges that the AFL-CIO was undermining

President Johnson's efforts to "build bridges" of understanding to the Communist world.

"A damnable lie," "contemptible" and "slandering" ex-plumber Meany fumed at Auto

Workers President Reuther and his brother, Victor.

The Reuther brothers attacked Meany for boycotting the International Labor Organization after it elected a Communist president; charged that the AFL-CIO was allowing itself to be used as a front by the Central Intelligence Agency and using its influence to block State

Department visas to Communists in some exchange programs.

The AFL-CIO Executive

Council gave Meany an 18-6 vote

Politics Taken With Grain of Salts

By JOHN R. STARR

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Politics and tomatoes should be taken with a grain of salt and the North Little Rock Times applied

a shakerful to the campaign doings at the Pink Tomato Festival in Warren.

The weekly newspaper picked home choice quotes from the speaking, labeled them as "profound remarks" and proceeded to add its own comment.

Nothing that Charles Honey,

a candidate for Congress had said, "When Chuck Honey goes to Washington, it'll be just like you being there," the editor reported, "That's what I'm afraid of."

Dale Alford said he was glad that Winthrop Rockefeller got to meet him and the editor

quipped, "Another millionaire,

Raymond Rebsamen, was almost that lucky, too, but he had to choose between mauling Alford in Warren and staying in the air conditioning in Little Rock, Dale lost."

Rebsamen was the only one of 10 candidates for governor who failed to appear on a hot, sunny day to bid for votes at Warren.

Richard Arnold, another congressional candidate, said, in replying to a charge by a republican that Democrats were in the White House when all four of the 20th Century wars started:

"If the Democrats defeated

the Kaiser in World War I and

Hitler in World War II, then

I'm proud to be a Democrat."

"You're not old enough to remember," the editor cracked.

"But our recollection is that the Army and Navy had something to do with all that."

Jim Johnson declared: "If you'll join hands and heart with me, we'll drive the money changers from the halls of the capitol."

To which the editor remarked,

"But you'll sure make a bloody mess in the halls while you're doing it."

And finally the editor recalled that Kenneth Sulzer, charging corruption in government, asked: "Have you had enough?"

"Yes," replied the editor.

"But, unfortunately, this is only the middle of June."

Riot Troops Surround Institute

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam

(AP) — Riot troops surrounded

Saigon's Buddhist Institute today after a mob of about 150 persons killed a policeman, beat up another and dragged him bleeding into the institute's compound.

In the war against the Viet

Cong, American B52 bombers rounded out one year of raids against Communist targets in Viet Nam and marked the anniversary with two big attacks against the Communist guerrillas.

Ground fighting dwindled to only minor allied contact with the Viet Cong.

One wave of the Guam-based

B52s hit a Viet Cong troop concentration 35 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Another formation of the eight-engine bombers hammered two Viet Cong base camps 75 miles northwest of Saigon. The target area was in War Zone C near the Cambodian border, long a Communist troop stronghold.

Police officials reported that a 16-year-old Buddhist girl, who set herself afire in an anti-government protest Friday night, died today.

The girl, Dao Thi Tuyet, set her clothing ablaze in the compound of the Buddhist Institute.

Her death brought to 10 the number of self-immolations since May 29.

The policeman was shot to death with his own revolver and a police captain said the man who did it was seen running into the institute. Police were demanding that monks hand him over.

The captain, Phan Huu Tran, said police knew the slayer.

Plainclothesmen seized four persons, one of them wearing monk's robes, and took them away in a truck. One resisted and policemen were seen beating him with rifle butts.

Police said the slain policeman was on his way to work when he was attacked. He lived in the area.

Although the institute, about two miles from downtown

Saigon, has been the center of agitation against the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, no
